The Gospel Plan of Salvation by Kenneth Davis, now shipping from Lambert Book House.

This careful study of God's plan for salvation thoroughly reviews each step the Holy Word prescribes for everyone desiring eternal life. Speaking only where the Bible speaks, this 13-chapter, 96-page book brings into focus the meaning of our existence, the foundations of our relationship with God, the significance of worship, sin, and choice, our desperate need for salvation, and God's provision for salvation through our Savior Jesus Christ.

The Gospel Plan of Salvation thoroughly covers Christ's mission, judgment, and suffering on our behalf, the steps to salvation as prescribed in the Bible (Hearing, Faith, Repentance, Confession, Baptism, and living the Christian life) and the operation of the Holy Spirit in salvation.

This biblically accurate information runs contrary to Calvinist doctrine which teaches that people are born sinners, are predestined either to be saved or lost, are compelled to answer Christ's call without choice in the matter, are saved aside from water baptism, and are then forever saved regardless of actions contrary to God's commands. However, the material included in The Gospel Plan of Salvation is a careful study of the Word. The instructions and arguments are clearly stated and restated throughout the New Testament and cannot be logically challenged by opinions derived from creative analyses offered by modern theologians or those who have offered opinions across the centuries. Ultimately, the movement away from God's plan for salvation—as prescribed and commanded in the Bible—has proven ideal for cultures whose worship focuses on emotional response, entertainment, and a nod from deity to engage in sin without consequence.
